Dr. Zomb Presents Entertaining Show

Only a few were present when the famous Dr. Zomb put on his very interesting and educational two-hour show recently in the Opera House and those who missed it, missed a thoroughly enjoyable evening. Dr. Zomb could not have been blamed too much if he had cancelled the show because of such a small crowd but in the true tradition of show business—the show went on.

Just to prove the truth of the saying, "the hand is quicker than the eye" Dr. Zomb performed several feats of sleight of hand that amused and amazed his audience. Cigarettes were made to disappear only to come out of another pocket or his hand. With no strings attached, the magician made certain cards rise out of a deck in a tumbler at the request of a local citizen.

With the help of 'Wayne The Great' Greep he did other amazing things, such as making a silk handkerchief disappear—Wayne even did this one himself. After demonstrating many other feats of magic Dr. Zomb called on his assistant, Mr. Morris, to do his specialty, that of identifying objects with his fingertips. This sounded rather difficult. However, Dr. Zomb called Lyn Stone and Max Hamilton from the audience to make it even more so. Max tested the blackboard used as a blindfold and attested to its' effectiveness and then tied it over Mr. Morris's head. His hands were then tied to his knees and both Lyn and Max tied several knots to make sure everything was tight. A coat was then placed over his hands and knees and objects were held out in front of him. Quick as a flash he brought one hand from under the coat and identified a pocket knife and then again he did it to identify two keys on a chain. Even though Lyn and Max were with sharp eyes neither of them can explain how it was done—magic, no doubt!

Among the other magical illusions Dr. Zomb changed the color of a large bouquet of feathers as they were drawn through a tube, and poured golden glasses full to overflowing with liquid—only they didn't overflow. The brass rings that form part of each magician's show, were present and again mystified the people as to how they worked. Dr. Zomb knew, but he wasn't telling.

The second half of Dr. Zomb's show was devoted to hypnosis and as helpers he had about ten volunteers from the audience as members of a committee to study the subject. First he put them all to sleep then asked them, among other things, to grip their hands together and then told them that no matter how hard they tried they couldn't pull them apart—and they couldn't!

He put them through all the different stages of hypnosis and had them do various things that are almost unbelievable unless seen person ally. This does not mean that they did anything they would not try to do if they were awake, but the subconscious mind gives the body greater power to carry out instructions, for example, one member of the committee was told to put his arms out in a very uncomfortable angle and keep them there—this he did with no show of tiring at all. Heads turning in circles, hands out, anything at all that's what was done at Dr. Zomb's command. Donn Petrak was put under hypnosis and told to take his seat in the audience and when he was carried back to the stage he remembered nothing about it.

Hypnosis can be very helpful at overcoming habits such as smoking. This was proven to Nick Barasnak who was told, while in a trance, that he hated smoking, that it made him cough and choke. This it did when he was offered his cigarette back again. A command from Dr. Zomb he forgot all about this and again relished smoking.

These synthetics are not absorbent and do not absorb perspiration. A blend of natural fibres, such as cotton and linen, with the synthetic may be a better choice for summer. They are cooler and more comfortable than an all-synthetic. In cold dry weather the synthetic develop static electricity and may cling to the skin.

Did You Know

That water that boils gently is just as hot as water that bubbles fiercely. Reduce the heat on your stove as soon as food starts to boil and you will save your fuel.

That bright, shiny metal pans reflect heat and give an even, golden-brown color, top and bottom to baked food.

That your refrigerator should be defrosted as soon as the frost is 1/4 inch thick. If not, the motor runs more often and the cooling effect is reduced.

Stain Suggestions

Heat will set many types of stains that might be removed easily by using cool water. Many fabrics have been spoiled by pressing over stains with a hot iron or plunging the item into hot wash water. Sponging with cool water or soaking before washing may save your garment. Stains that respond to cool water treatment include those made by most non-greasy food or beverages, fresh garden foliage, mud and perspiration. Start while the stain is fresh for best results. The Dept of Agriculture publishes a Stain Removal Bulletin available from this office.

Kitchen Windows

If you are planning to build or remodel your home this summer, think about your kitchen windows. They can occupy too much wall space and cut down on space needed for storage. The area of window glass should vary with the floor area of the room and with different sections of the country. In the Northeast window, glass area should be equal to at least 15% of the floor area. In the southeast and Northeast 12 1/2%; in the Southwest 10%. The lighting of the room will also depend on how much light is reflected by walls and ceiling and how much is absorbed by window curtains, shades or blinds. Light colors in a dull finish reflect light without glare.

When you are shopping for new fabrics be sure to read all information on labels to find out the fibres used, their qualities and care required. This is an experimental period and many synthetic and natural fibres are blended in a fabric.

The easily cleaned kitchen.

A clean kitchen is an attractive kitchen. The ease of cleaning depends upon the type of finish or covering used, says Miss C. Judson, Home Designing Specialist. Smooth washable surfaces are easier to clean than rough ones. She offers some good advice on this topic.

Kitchen walls are usually plastered and require some additional protection if they are to be cleaned easily. Paint is the most popular finish for plastered walls. The plaster should be smooth, well cured and free from moisture, dirt, grease or other foreign material. New plaster contains free lime, which will destroy any paint applied to it. The new plaster should, therefore, cure several months before it is painted; or the free lime should be neutralized by washing the plaster with a solution of zinc sulphate, then rinsing with clear water.

After the plaster has dried it should be painted with a coat of inside flat wall paint, thinned if necessary with turpentine. This coat of flat paint should be well-brushed into the surface and allowed to dry thoroughly before the next coat is applied.

The second coat of paint should be semi-gloss. After the second coat has thoroughly dried the final coat of gloss paint may be applied. It is well to remember that three thin coats of paint well brushed into the surface are more desirable than one or two heavy coats.

Kitchen work surfaces should be smooth, durable, easy to clean and resistant to heat and moisture. Surfaces or coverings that meet those requirements are inlaid linoleum, glazed tile, porcelain-enamel, and stainless metal. Inlaid linoleum is one of the most popular coverings because it is relatively inexpensive. Linoleum should be cemented to the surface. Many of the new type linoleums have the adhesive back which simplifies the laying operation. A strip of light weight stainless metal may be used to conceal and protect the edges. As soon as inlaid linoleum begins to show signs of wear it should be finished with a penetrating seal. Glazed tile is expensive and requires an experienced workman to lay it properly. Porcelain-enamel is usually obtained only on factory-made tables or other equipment. It is easily chipped, may crack with sudden changes in temperature and is easily marked by aluminium utensils. Stainless metal, of which there are several types, is desirable but its greater cost has limited its use.

Paint or varnish are destroyed by continual washing and are not recommended for working.

Howard Rasmussen and Joe Keeler enjoyed a travelling and camping holiday with the Fourth Ward Deacons last week. Arthur Zobell, Wayne Tollestrup, Craig Dahl, Kent Rolfsen, Kent Rasmussen, Robert Vance, Ted Jones, Jim Vance and Tom Hall made up the party.

We will end the shocking conditions in our Defence Department which the Government's own investigator, (Col. G. S. We will reduce federal taxes by at least $500,000,000 a year... without reducing any pensions, family allowances, or other social security payments.

We will, without impairing the efficiency of our Armed Forces, correct the appalling inefficiencies in the administration of the Department of National Defence.

We will provide the nation with an administration whose attitude towards the spending of public monies will be one of prudence and common sense. Or, "If they need a gold-plated piano it is our duty to buy it".

We will reduce or eliminate countless hidden, indirect taxes which grossly inflate the cost of consumer goods, add to the grievous cost of living, increase the price of homes beyond the capacity of most of our people to pay, discourage saving and initiative.

I fancied that the cold weather would kill off the tender young plants. Then in the third year I was informed that the trees had never been planted."

It's the end of the trail for the nation's Superfortresses, the B-29s of World War 2 fame and their heavier, more powerful postwar offspring the B-50s.

The Third Ward M Men and Gleaners and their leaders Jane McMullin and Ralph Walker enjoyed a Beggar Party Tuesday Night when they visited the home of each member with their paper plate extended, for food and fun.

DR. ZOMB

Louella Larsen was put in a trance and told she could not remember anything or anybody and that she would not awaken until commanded to do so. Even when her mother was called from the audience to try to awaken her, she couldn't. After being awakened by Dr. Zomb, she didn't recognize her mother, any of the people there or even herself when she looked into a mirror. Louella was also told everything was in total darkness and even with her eyes wide open and a match held in front of her face she couldn't see a thing.

She really had amnesia until told that she would awaken feeling refreshed and happy.

Donn Petrik was handed a glass of water and told his hands were shaking so badly that the water was spilling—which it was. Dr. Zomb then told Donn that he was afraid of mice and that one was after him. Donn jumped onto a chair and cowered away from the mouse until told to get down and step on it.

The Catholic Youth Club of the Lethbridge Deanery will hold their annual picnic at the Olsanski farm north of Lethbridge this coming Sunday August 9th. Games, picnic lunch and camp fire entertainment will be the order of the day. Scheduled to get under way at 1:30 pm will be the fast-ball tournament. Novelty races and track events will follow, points will be awarded in competition for the Taber CYO Trophy now held by St Basil's of Lethbridge. Picture Butte CYO will be in charge of refreshments during the afternoon. Taber is in charge of sports and St Pats in charge of entertainment. Raymond CYO will take charge of the spiritual program in the evening.

It was at a dinner party and the subject of discussion was the way women have taken a much larger evening it was tops—so much so in the affairs of the world than that several carloads of people who they used to. Finally one man said, "I heard about it the next day drove agree with letting women do as they over to Magrath to see it, taking pleasure. In fact I maintain that man along several of those who attended and woman are equal in every way." The show here.

If Dr. Zomb and Co. come again don't fail to take in his show!

For the finale Dr. Zomb put them all to sleep and told them that when they awakened they would try to leave the stage but that they could not because their shoes were nailed to the floor. Each in turn was then thanked for participating in the show and told he could leave the stage.
